MOSCOW EXPECTS AGREEMENT

PROTECTION OF EMPLOYEES SOUGHT BY SOVIET

Moscow, To-day.

It is expected here that a complete agreement for the transfer of the Chinese Eastern Railway from Russia to Japanese and Manchukuo control will be reached shortly.

While the purchase price has been fixed at 140,000,000 yen, negotiations continue as regards to other conditions of sale, the most important of which relate to the circumstances of the transfer of the railway to the purchasers and guarantees for payment of the purchase price. It has been agreed that in the event of the fall of the yen below a certain level, currency payments will be reckoned according to the gold rate.

In the event of the dismissal of Soviet employees by the new administration, three months' notice must be given and also the right to remain in Manchukuo for two months longer to settle personal affairs. — Reuter.

ROOSEVELT SEES COST OF LIVING INCREASE IN U.S.

Cheaper Dollar In Terms Of Goods Values

PRESIDENT SCOUTS REPORTS OF NEW RECOVERY PROJECTS

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL (By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received November 1, 9:39 a.m.)

Washington, To-day.

President Roosevelt has announced that the Government is restoring the 5 per cent. Federal pay cut on July 1, 1935. He explained that the Budget will include the restoration because figures show that the cost of living will be upward in July sufficiently to justify action.

He clearly indicated that he expects the cost of living to increase substantially coupled, however, with an increase of real and, presumably, security values which will lessen the difficulty of paying debts.

Such increased cost of living, plus an increase in values, represent a cheapening dollar. The White House, however, said nothing to suggest further artificial cheapening of the dollar, such as devaluation.

The Administration believe that economic forces are already working and that the United States will have a cheaper dollar in terms of goods values.

The President is optimistic, despite four consecutive weekly declines in the official records of commodity prices.

President Roosevelt said that the Budget was still in the study stage and laughed at the reports that he had assigned billions of dollars to various new recovery projects. — United Press per S. E. Levy and Company.

BRITISH AIR MAIL TO CHINA PROSPECTS

OPERATIONS MAY START VERY SHORTLY

SIR PHILIP SASOON'S REPORT

LONDON, TO-DAY.

THE UNDER-SECRETARY OF STATE OF AIR, SIR PHILIP SASOON, IN AN INTERVIEW ON HIS RETURN FROM SINGAPORE, ONE OF THE LONGEST AIR TOURS THE MINISTER HAS EVER UNDERTAKEN, DECLARED THAT HE WAS PARTICULARLY INTERESTED IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF AERODROME LANDING GROUNDS ON THE INDIA-SINGAPORE SECTION OF THE ROUTE.

The Air Ministry, he said, had been working many months on plans for the development of commercial air transport, and had reached the conclusion that flying times must be drastically curtailed.

He had often landed at night time and was of the opinion that night flying would be a practical proposition in the near future.

Conversations with officials at Singapore had led him to believe that the difficulties of the extension of Imperial Airways to China are being overcome. He is hopeful of a service to China eventually. — Reuter.

POUND-DOLLAR STABILISATION NOW FORESEEN

WITHIN DEFINED LIMITS

GOLD BLOC'S FAILURE

British opinion believes that an agreement is in prospect for the stabilising of the dollar and sterling within defined limits, and it is thought that England is anxious for quick action, states a special Washington wire to Messrs. S. E. Levy and Company.

The Continent is in a political ferment which can only be relieved by steps towards stabilisation of exchange, which must originate from Great Britain and the United States. Exact stabilisation of the dollar and the pound is impossible at the moment.

The recent efforts on the part of the gold bloc to create confidence were not impressive, and, according to declarations of an authoritative nature, overnight devaluation is increasingly being favoured. The internal situation in Germany is becoming more and more serious as industrialists are up in arms against the recent confiscations.

World recovery, although patchy, is quite definite.

GOVERNMENT SALARIES

Restoration To 1932 Level

ROOSEVELT'S INTENTION

Washington, To-day.

President Roosevelt has announced his intention to recommend the full restoration, from July 1, next, of all Government salaries to the 1932 level in the expectation that increases in values and prices warrant it.

Salaries were reduced 15 per cent. when President Roosevelt entered the White House in 1933. The last Congress restored 10 per cent. of the forthcoming increase will be 5 per cent. — Reuter.

A scheme for the further development of British commercial air transport upon plans for which the Air Ministry, in conjunction with the Post Office and Imperial Airways, have been actively engaged for several months past will, it is hoped, be revealed within next month or two.

This announcement was made yesterday in an interview given by Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, who has just returned from his 19,000 miles flight over 14 countries, and during which he travelled as far east as Singapore and visited the Royal Air Force stations in Egypt, the North-West Frontier, and India.

Sir Philip's journey was made in seven different types of aircraft, both civil and military, and he is convinced that civil air transport must, in the not far distant future, increasingly supplant the older forms of transport.

Winnipeg, To-day.

It is announced that, at the government's request, wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange will be pegged from to-day. December futures will be at 75 cents per bushel, and May futures at 80 cents. — Reuter.

Maxim Litvinoff (arrow) signifies the victory of the Soviet in being admitted to the highest councils of the League of Nations by the "capitalist countries," which included it for 14 years, by making a speech of praise and commendation. WORLD RUBBER DEADLOCK

TWO FURTHER CHARGES MADE AGAINST EUROPEAN

Embezzlement Case Development

Two additional charges, were preferred against Geoffrey Fitzgerald Gilbert, a former assistant in Messrs. Arnold and Company, Limited, Gloucester Building, who was charged with the embezzlement of $4,800 from the company on October 17, before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Magistrate's court this morning. The new charges were the embezzlement of $6,664.88, on October 15, and $3,077.32 on October 16.

On the application of Mr. W. A. Mackinlay, of Messrs. Deacons, solicitor for the prosecution, the original charge was amended to that of $4,828.85. Mr. J. M. D'Almada Remedios appeared for the defendant. The case was adjourned for formal hearing at 2.30 p.m. to-day.

ENGLISH SOCCER LEAGUE ELEVEN BEAT SCOT RIVALS

LUCKY TO WIN BY ODD GOAL

OUTPLAYED BY NIPPY FORWARD LINE

London, To-day.

The English Football League recorded their second win in the latter-League Football competition at Stamford Bridge yesterday, when they defeated the Scottish League by 2 goals to 1.

In England's first encounter in the competition at Dublin on September 19 they defeated the Irish League by an overwhelming score of 6 goals to 1.

Playing under exceptionally poor conditions in which icy winds and rain greatly handicapped the players, the English League were fortunate to win before a crowd of 18,000 after being outplayed for three quarters of yesterday's game.

The nippy Scottish forwards completely overwhelmed the very weak English half back line.

Scotland took the lead in the first half through McCulloch and led at the interval. England, however, rallied after the resumption and persistently attacked, resulting in Brook's outside-left, scoring twice. — Reuter.

FAILURE TO REACH CONCORD ON 1935 QUOTA

Amsterdam Bitterly Disappointed

ANGLO-DUTCH COMPROMISE MAY RESULT

London, To-day.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Financial Times states that the failure of the International Rubber Committee to reach an agreement on the 1935 quota has created great disappointment in Amsterdam, especially because the conflict has arisen only a few months after the scheme began.

It is learned in Amsterdam that the conflict is probably due to the fact that the British desire a 40 per cent. restriction for six months, whereas the Dutch insist on 20 per cent. for the three months. It is hoped that a compromise, perhaps 30 per cent. for three months, will be reached.

Dutch Interests Consider Delicate Situation

London, To-day.

The Financial Times understands that the Dutch rubber interests have demanded a 20 per cent. restriction, and the British, a 30 per cent. restriction.

It is understood that the Dutch may compromise at 25 per cent., but they will not consider 30 per cent., except under the most pressing circumstances. It is believed that the Dutch are now discussing the matter with the Premier and Colonial Minister, Dr. H. Collin.

The next meeting of the International Committee will not be convened until there is a reasonable prospect of agreement. — Reuter.

100-FT. HIGH WAVES DAMAGE BRITISH LINER'S BRIDGE

Quebec, To-day.

Six of the crew and five passengers are believed drowned in the foundering of the motorship Roy David in heavy seas in the Gulf of St. Lawrence yesterday, while two members of the crew of an unknown schooner were also drowned.

Five survivors from the latter vessel were landed at Pigeon on rafts.

The liner Letitia, which berthed at Montreal, reported an 80-mile an hour gale after three days out from Liverpool. Hundred-foot high waves damaged the bridge and companion ways and lifeboats were smashed.

The man in the crow's nest was immersed several times. — Reuter.

POLLING BEGINS TO-DAY

Municipal Council Elections

460 WOMEN AMONG 2,700 CANDIDATES

London, To-day.

Polling takes place to-day in the Municipal Council elections throughout the country, and in London 28 Borough Councils will be reconstituted.

The election campaign has been proceeding several weeks, and 2,700 candidates have been nominated. Of these 168 have been returned unopposed, and the remainder are contesting the 1,167 seats.

Although many of the issues are purely local, candidates are, in the main, divided into two parties, 1,271 being Municipal reformers and 1,157 Labour. Ninety-four are standing as Independents and 62 Communists.

The candidates include 460 women. — British Wireless Service.

Dressmakers Favour The Sheath

FORMAL EVENING GOWNS

Paris.
Despite the usual secrecy with which the leading creators surround themselves at this time, it is reasonably safe to forecast a romantic and luxurious mode for the coming winter.

The way in which women unquestioningly adopted the long skirts, draped capes and bodices, and large, flat hats augurs well for a continuation of the ultra-feminine note in dress. Sweeping feathers, curls and diadems, jewelled belt, flowered décolletés which, by the way, have crept down at about the same ratio as they crept up, all these can be reasonably looked upon as the harbingers of the most spectacular styles for many years.

Nobody anticipates anything revolutionary so far as the general line is concerned. The sheath dress will probably be the basic theme on which most of the creators will elaborate their individual ideas. One thing is certain, however, this is going to be the winter of the woman with the perfect figure, according to modern ideals. The boyish form with its flattened effect is definitely "out." On the other hand, modern woman has learnt that no amount of tight-lacing will ever give the impression of slenderness, and she knows that fundamentally it is all a matter of exercising proper foundation garments and clothes suited to her personality and figure.

A Ribbon Season

A very modern interpretation of the Egyptian line will be followed by one leading dressmaker who has remained faithful to her principle of making modern women look beautiful—never eccentric or funny. Evening dresses will feature the streamline, but treated in an entirely different manner. A subtle cut will take inches off the waistline and with the use of wide, draped belts and sashes, full, often bell-shaped sleeves, all these features will make hips look correspondingly slimmer. This dressmaker is also going to use ribbon in a totally new way as well as her usual range of laces, including paillette and silk embroidered varieties.

GOLD LAME FROCK

COTTONS ARE NOT FOR NATIVES ONLY

London.
The natives of South Africa like plenty of colour in the cotton skirts and sashes which Manchester makes for them.

BRIDGE NOTES

TRUMP END PLAY

by Ely Culbertson.

An interesting situation is always presented when a partnership at the Bridge table undertakes a contract as a defensive measure, expecting to be penalised, only to find that the Gods of Distribution have been so kind to them that they fulfill their contract.

There is, of course, an added thrill when the grimly defending partnership have been forced to erect their last defensive against what appears to be an opposing game at a Slam contract, and when the fulfillment of the contract involves not only favourable distribution, but clever play.
Mr. Stanley Gould of Toledo,
Ohio, recently sent me the hand below, which was played by him as a member of the Toledo University Bridge team:

Cinema Notes

"TWENTY THOUSAND YEARS IN SING SING"—STAR
THEATRE

A grim and realistic drama of prison life if portrayed in First National's production, "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing."
The story, which was adapted from the book by Warden Lewis E.
Lawes, of Sing Sing Prison, is the most remarkable dramatisation of human emotions ever made.

Spencer Tracy is in the leading role of Convict Tom Connors, a "big shot" of the underworld, who was eventually sent to the electric chair for a crime he had never committed. Miss Bette Davis, playing opposite Tracy, lends excellent support.

"THIRTY DAY PRINCESS"—
KING'S THEATRE

Never before has charming Sylvia Sydney, star of "Pick Up" and "American Tragedy", been so convincingly demure as she is in "Thirty Day Princess," now playing at the King's Theatre. Always an actress worthy of front page fame, Miss Sydney wins new laurels in this new picture—a laughable tale of a great impersonation which places a down-and-out ham actress in the public eye as the crown princess of an obscure European country. Hired to substitute for the real princess, who is ill with the mumps, Sylvia plays her role even to the king's taste. In fact, it's a royal treat.

Cary Grant, as Porter Madison
III, is the virile hero and Vince
Barnett is Count Nicholas, otherwise known as "Sourpuss", the jilted fiancée. And the cast is well supported by such luminaries as Henry Stephenson, Edgar Norton and Edward Arnold.

"THE SAVAGE GIRL"—
CENTRAL THEATRE

A fascinating story of elementary emotions and primitive passions is Monarch's latest attraction, "The Savage Girl," featuring beautiful Rochelle Hudson, Walter Byron and Harry Myers, at the Central Theatre.

It is the story of the discovery of a white girl by explorers in the African jungles in the midst of savagely black and ferocious animals.

The occasional white, or a band of white people, discovered among jungle tribes has offered one of the great mysteries to modern day explorers and scientists.

"THE GREAT JASPER"—
MAJESTIC THEATRE

"The Great Jasper," now showing at the Majestic Theatre, is a specially interesting and amusing screen version of Fulton Oursler's famous novel of the same name.

Richard Dix in his portrayal of the Great Jasper gives one of the finest performances of his career.

Vera Engels, a young and beautiful German actress, plays the part of Mrs. McGowd and Edna May Oliver as the fortune-teller is her usual amusing self.

Florence Eldridge, Bruce Cabot and James Bush are other notable players in the supporting cast.

PURPOSELESS HOCKEY
CLUB WIN OVER SAINTS IN DULL ENCOUNTER
Both Forward Lines Disappoint
CLUB SCORES 2-0 AGAINST DEPLETED SIDE

The Hong Kong Hockey Club seniors defeated St. Andrew's Club by 2 goals to nil in a friendly encounter at King's Park yesterday.

A scrappy game of only mediocre standard, the play developed into a purposeless struggle between two forward lines who never looked like scoring. The only bright spasm in the game was provided in the first few minutes, when the Saints, who were without the services of White at back, were overwhelmed by the Club who scored twice.

The Club scored through Pote Hunt and Tetley, but after this White entered the game to bring the Saints to full strength, and thereafter the score remained unchanged to the finish.

Only the full-backs played up to standard. White and Broadbridge were outstanding for their side, though lacking sting in their clearances. W. A. Reed broke up the Saints forwards at centre-half, and the two-backs, Rodgers and Flowerdew, were unbeatable in the defence line.

Lack of positional play by the forwards on both sides resulted in many opportunities going to waste.

R. Baldwin made a fine solo effort in the second half, but after beating the full-back shot wide. Bramble and Senior were absentees from the Club team, A. A. R. Botelho and E. C. Fincher coming in as substitutes.

Club:—C. L. Gregory, J. Rodger, L. Flowerdew, G. Sommer, W. A. Reed, E. V. Reed, E. C. Fincher, J. T. Tetley, A. T. Lay, A. A. R. Botelho and J. W. Pote Hunt.

Saints:—R. H. Wong, F. A. Broadbridge and E. H. P. White; J. T. K. Gilchrist, A. E. P. Guest and A. B. Hamson; A. S. Bliss, N. A. E. McKay, E. F. Fincher, W. H. College and R. Baldwin.

9,000 SEE DE LEON LEAD METCALFE IN 100 METRES

George Herman Erhardt, Bab Ruth to you, is stepping out of uniform into muffs as the Philadelphia Athletics' manager for 1935. Falling legs will not let him be a regular, and he did not want to be just a pinch-hitter and week-end performer, unless he was a manager.

CLUB RUGBY WIN OVER H.M.S. ADVENTURE

MEEKE AND HUTCHISON OUTSTANDING

Playing a fairly good game the Club "A" fifteen defeated H.M.S. Adventure by four goals (20 points) to a try (3 points) on the Club ground yesterday, the feature of the encounter being the excellence of Meeke and Hutchison behind the scrum.

R. G. Castleton played an extraordinarily good game, and besides being to the fore in the loose, converted all the Club's tries.

Stewart opened the scoring in the first minute of the game when Munro took the ball in his stride from Hutchison, and, after cutting through, passed to Stewart who crossed over in the corner. Castleton converted from a very difficult angle.

From the kick-off the Adventure took play into the Club's '25, but Lammert relieved with a good length kick to touch.

"Blind Side" Movement
Ten minutes after the first try Meeke scored again when he cut round on the "blind" side of the scrum and took the opposing backs by surprise. Castleton again added the points.

In the second half the Adventure forwards were seen to advantage in a number of dribbles on the touchline, but the tackling and kicking of Meeke, Hutchison, and Lammert prevented any scoring.

From a scrum down just outside the Adventure's '25, Meeke went over for his second try, when he cleverly "sold the dummy." Castleton again added the extra points.

The Adventure pressed from the kick-off and pressure on the right wing saw Goldman sling back a wild pass to Lammert, and Lt. Field gathered on the run to score between the post. The try was unconverted.

Just before the end the Club's fourth try resulted from a fine run by McGilchrist, who eventually transferred to Garrod, the latter completing the last ten yards to ground as he was tackled. Castleton again converted.

MARQUETTE FLASH SAYS ONE OF WORLD'S BEST

"FASTEST HUMAN" MAKES SENSATIONAL DASH

PLUCKY OPPOSITION OFFERED

THE American track and field team, which passed through Hong Kong recently on their way to Manila, including Ralph Metcalfe and Glenn Cunningham, world record holders, carried all before them in a dual track meet in Manila last Saturday and Sunday, shattering eight Philippine records. The American team won every event in which they competed, with the exception of the relay race and Javelin throw events.

In the relay event, the Americans were at a severe handicap, pitting their distance runners against the sprinters of the Islands. It was probably the most thrilling event of the series, Ralph Metcalfe, finishing about two steps behind the Filipino crack, after reducing a lead of 10 metres. He declared it was the fastest 100 he had ever run.

A crowd of 9,000 attended the dual meets at the Rizal Memorial Stadium, where the Far Eastern Games were held. In their endeavour to keep pace with the Americans, the local athletes also shattered many of their own marks. The meeting is considered to be the most successful yet conducted in the Philippines.

DE LEON, WHO RACED AGAINST RALPH METCALFE, THE FASTEST HUMAN, IN THE 100 METRES, IS REPORTED BY METCALFE TO BE ONE OF THE FASTEST IN THE WORLD OVER 50 YARDS. HE PROVED THIS BELIEF BY LEADING THE MARQUETTE FLASH FOR THE FIRST 20 ODD METRES.

On Saturday, the first day, the mile runner against the Island's visitors to the stadium were provided with ample excitement, the fastest in the country, and who started in the relay took a big lead from Glenn Cunningham. Hornbostel and Green were able to cut the lead down slightly, but De Leon was given a 10 metres start over Metcalfe in the last leg. After the race Metcalfe declared that it was one of the fastest runs he had ever made.

SUNDAY'S MEET
The big attraction of Sunday's competition was the 100 metres in which Rafael de Leon, local sprint champion, had an opportunity to test his speed against Ralph Metcalfe, world's fastest human.

De Leon, however, was outclassed, finishing third to Rafael Navallasca. Metcalfe had no difficulty in winning the event, gliding on to the tape a full six metres ahead of Navallasca. His time was 10.5 seconds better than the Philippine record of 10.6 held by De Leon.

GOOD START
Both Metcalfe and De Leon got off to a good start, after two previous false starts. The Filipino boy, whom Metcalfe believes is one of the fastest in the world at 50 metres, proved the truth of this belief when he led the field for the first 20 yards. Metcalfe, however, caught up with him at the 20 metres mark and from then on the Marquette flyer had no competition.

Navallasca ran a great race and beat De Leon by two yards.

RUNS THRILLING RACE
The grace and speed of Metcalfe is the talk of the town. One of the most thrilling races witnessed on a local cinder path took place Saturday afternoon when "Rapid Ralph" literally flew in the last lap of the 400 metres relay and all but overtook De Leon who had a 10-metres lead on him. The fans were thrilled by the performance and this race will long be remembered by local track fans.

MAMAK WIN FOR SIGNALS

Beat University By Odd Goal In 3

PLAYER CAUTIONED BY REFEREE

An unfortunate incident occurred in the Mamak Hockey Tournament match between the Royal Corps of Signals and University on the Marina ground yesterday when Higginbottom, a Signals player, was cautioned by the referee for attempting to strike W. Singh, a University player.

The game, however, resumed without further incident, the Signals winning by the odd goal in 3.

The 'Varsity led at half-time through K. L. Goon. Cross, the Signals goal-keeper, only partially kicked clear a shot from Ozorio and Goon netted the ball before Cross could recover.

Larkin equalised for the Signals early in the second half and Farrell, at inside-left, scored the winning goal.

Although leading in the first half, the 'Varsity were hard pressed by the Signalmen who made repeated attacks.

Martin was very sound at back for the Signals and broke up each attempt of the 'Varsity forwards.

Chin made a good attempt to stop a shot from Larkin but the ball hit his pads and glanced into the goal. The Signals' second goal was scored under dubious circumstances, the thick dusts from a melee in front of goal making it difficult to decide how the goal was scored.

University.—S. S. Chin, Dr. A. M. Rodriguez, E. L. Gosano, J. H. Too, W. Singh, L. Oliveira, P. G. Tang, L. K. Goon, O. I. de Sousa, H. L. Ozorio and S. Reed.

Signals.—Cross, Martin (Capt.), Hodges, Buttery, Dilley, Ayten, Higginbottom, Erridge, Whitehead, Farrell and Larkin.

FOR COUGHS, SORE THROAT, AND COLDS.

Respiroids provide a highly effective, rapidly curative treatment for coughs, sore throat, colds and bronchial troubles generally. As Respiroid lozenges slowly dissolve in the mouth you breathe-in-the-cure, for they release delicately aromatic medicinal essences and vapours which penetrate the nasal and bronchial passages, and go right down into the remotest parts of the lungs, in this way breaking up phlegm and soothing and healing all inflamed parts.

You can carry Respiroids in your pocket ready for use anywhere and at all times, which is another great advantage over the old-fashioned liquid remedies requiring a bulky bottle and a spoon.

Of all chemists, or post free, 75 cents per bottle, from the China branch of the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., 451 Kiang Road, Shanghai.

ABILITY TO HEAD
WELL IMPORTANTJames Seed Calls Witnesses
To Support View

There are few experts, including football managers, who judge a footballer from the same angle, writes James Seed, manager of Charlton Athletic and former Spurs, Wednesday, and England player. Opinions differ as violently as it is possible to imagine about the merits of a player.

It is my considered opinion that the player who has mastered the art of heading the ball can generally be accepted as having acquired also the gift of masterly ball control on the ground.

The Intelligent Nod

I have certain definite ideas as to what constitutes the complete footballer, and ability in heading the ball is certainly an attribute I expect. An intelligent nod of the head may mean the difference between being on the attack and being on the defensive.

U.S. TRACK STARS
SET NEW MARKS

The visiting American athletes participated in seven events on Sunday, one of them being the hammer throw, an exhibition event.

The only Philippine record not broken was in the pole vault which Wirt Thompson won at 12 feet 4 inches.

The Philippine record is a fraction of an inch better than this mark. The Swedish relay is not run in the Philippines so there was no local record to shatter.

CUNNINGHAM EASY WINNER

Glenn Cunningham, world record holder for the mile run, started the record breaking performance yesterday afternoon by easing through the 1,500-metres in 3 minutes 59.1 seconds, breaking the Philippine record which was 4 minutes 14 seconds. Cunningham took the lead from the outset and kept increasing his lead as the race progressed.

Running with the smooth graceful stride that has set world marks and made him one of the world's greatest distance runners, Cunningham's style was a decided contrast to the plugging strained efforts of the island's best milers.

Cunningham finished the first lap a few yards ahead of Marcelino Andes and Pedro Yatar, while Longinos Espinoza trailed in the rear. By the end of the second lap the American star was 15 yards ahead of Andes and he finished the third lap 40 metres to the good. He stepped out in the last lap and the gap between him and his closest rival, Andes, continued to widen. As the American hit the straight away to the finishing line he started a sprint which carried him to the tape a full 100 metres ahead of Andes.

NEW DISCUS RECORD

John Anderson next came through for another record-breaking feat when he heaved the discus 45.38 metres. Aurelio Amante broke his own P.I. record in an attempt to beat the American. He threw the disc 42.82 metres. The P.I. record was 42.545 metres held by Amante himself. William Ray of the Philippines, placed third in this event.

Howard Green, quarter miler, clipped three-tenths of a second off the P.I. record for the 400 metres when he ran the event in 49.5 seconds.

He finished five yards ahead of Nemesio de Guzman who placed second. Candari kept pace with Green until the last straight away when Green started his winning sprint to the tape. Candari ran himself out in an attempt to win and Guzman passed him 10 metres from the finish to take second place.

Ralph Metcalfe completed the quartette of record-smashing performances in the 100 metres. Anderson won the hammer throw, an exhibition event, from W. L. Warden. Manilan, who was also a former member of the Cornell track and field squad. Anderson's throw was 44.80 metres.

RELAY THRILLING

The Swedish relay concluded the events. Though not so thrilling as the 400 metre relay of last Saturday, yesterday's event was none the less interesting. Green ran against Navallasca in the first leg of the relay, consisting of 100 metres, and he gave Metcalfe a five-yard lead. Metcalfe, running against Salcedo in the 200 metres leg, increased the lead to almost 25 metres. Candari, however, cut down the lead against Cunningham, who ran the 300 metres leg. Charles Hornbostel took the baton with a 10 metres lead over Malasig and ran the lead to 3 metres at the finish line. The day yesterday's event was none the

With corner kicks, goal kicks, in deed, almost every kind of free kick, the ball must of necessity be "given the air," and the player who can take control of it before it reaches the ground is giving his side a decided advantage.

If so little importance is given to this phase of the game, can anybody tell me why such clubs as the Arsenal, Tottenham Hotspur, and Sheffield Wednesday specialise in head-ball tennis as a part of their training?

Spectacular Goals

Some of the finest and most spectacular goals have been scored by headers, from centres from the wing. That is good football. The full-back intercepts wing with his head. That is also good football. I have told that if I had seen the Arsenal and Glasgow Rangers match at Highbury recently I would have changed my views as to how the game should be played. But, just as one swallow does not make a summer, so the play in one football match—a friendly—will never convince me that football is a game only for the feet. If that were so I might suggest that any success I personally enjoyed as a player was gained under "false pretences."

It may be suggested that my recent experience of Third Division football has warped my judgment of modern football and footballers. That is not so. I endeavour always to retain my First Division ideas at all cost, on the assumption that only the best is good enough for me and my present club.

ENGLISH SOCCER LEAGUE
ELEVEN BEAT SCOT RIVALS

This was the fortieth encounter between these two teams, England having won 22, including this encounter, lost 10 and drawn 8.

England's last win against Scotland was recorded at Tottenham in 1931 when they scored 7 goals against Scotland's 3. The last encounter played at Glasgow resulted in four goals being shared.

D.B.S. CRICKET WIN

The bowling of A. J. Hulse (4 for 22) and the batting of G. T. Lee (44) and A. Zimmern (25) enabled the Diocesan Boys' School to beat the R.A.S.C. by 71 runs on the school ground yesterday.

1935 Davis Cup Play

New York, To-day. George Lott and Lester Stoeffen Wimbledon and National doubles champions, are considering entering the professional ranks according to a statement by Mercer Beasley last night. If this is so it would mean that a new Davis Cup doubles team would have to be found for America's 1935 challenge. Beasley thought Budge and Make would constitute the next team.—Reuter.

BRITAIN LAGS BEHIND ALL COMPETITORS IN FAST AIR LINERS

Believe it or not, but it was three days after John Grieson, the British flier, landed in New York from a trans-Atlantic flight, before newspapers learned of it. That's how important such flights are now!

SINGAPORE-INDIA SECTION
During his long tour there were no forced landings and all the flights were made strictly to schedule. He was particularly interested in the development in progress in the aerodromes and landing grounds on the India-Singapore section of the route, which, he is satisfied, is proceeding on the right lines.

The chief difficulty over this part of the route is the dampness of the aerodromes during the monsoon period, but this matter is now receiving the attention of aerodrome experts. Fortunately prevailing winds do not vary substantially in direction, and it is therefore, possible to overcome the difficulty by putting down landing strips on the aerodromes. This method has already been adopted at Bangkok with marked success.

MALAYA AIR-MINDED
Sir Philip Sassoon said that the civil aerodrome at Singapore was a very fine one, and that the buildings had been extremely well designed and laid out. The people of Malaya were enthusiastic over flying and realised their responsibilities, and the fact that the peninsula must be the link of an ever increasing importance in the Empire air mail route, he added.

He expressed satisfaction over the speed race in the great Australia contest, which was won by a British machine and a British engine, and paid tribute to the excellent performance of the Douglas machine flown by the very able Dutch pilots. But he did not think that they would claim that the time had yet arrived when it was possible to contemplate a speed of 200 m.p.h. on a regular schedule flown in all weathers and at all times of the year. The lessons of the race were apparent, but he did not wish it to be thought that any special action on the part of the Air Ministry was attendant on the result of such an event.

AIR MAIL TIME SAVING
Referring to the work on the plans for the ordered development which had been proceeding at the Air Ministry, in conjunction with the Post Office and Imperial Airways, for many months past, he said that they had reached the conclusion that the present flying times between London and the other Empire capitals must be progressively and drastically curtailed, and that measures must be taken for the further development of air mail traffic in particular. Obviously a great deal of preparatory work must be done and the closest and fullest consultation with the Dominions and Colonies was necessary as a preliminary to the final formulation of a definitive scheme. They had no intention of making their plans public prematurely, he concluded. — British Wireless Service.

RUSSIAN CLAIMS WORLD'S GLIDING RECORD

A new world's record flight for a two-seater glider is claimed in Koktebel, Crimea, by a Soviet glider pilot who with a passenger, remained in the air for seventeen hours and nine minutes.

LACK OF OPPORTUNITY FOR CIVIL FLYING FAR TOO MUCH MONOPOLY IN RESEARCH

"CAUTIOUSNESS WILL EVENTUALLY WIN," SAYS EXPERT

(By Major C. C. Turner)

London.

BRITAIN has long and properly had the conviction that her Air Force is the best equipped in the world. This title she will retain only by wisely directed and strenuous efforts. On the civil side, British air lines are the slowest when flying among those of our competitors.

The comparison in terms of approximate cruising speeds shows (in miles per hour):

British	98-100	German	152
Dutch	165	American	180-190
French	125

BRIEFLY, THE REASON FOR THE COMPARATIVELY LOW SPEED ON OUR AIR LINES HAS BEEN THE LIMITED FINANCIAL RESOURCES AVAILABLE, AND THE POLICY IMPOSED UPON IMPERIAL AIRWAYS OF AIMING TO MAKE CIVIL AIR TRANSPORT SELF-SUPPORTING.

Considerable success in this direction has been attained, and Imperial Airways no doubt has a mass of valuable data relating to maintenance costs and to the prolongation of the life of the engine.

Speed costs money, and as other countries are willing to pay for speed, and their rivalry and example cannot safely be ignored, it follows that the time has come for a full review to be undertaken of our own position.

Not only on the commercial side is there grave cause for disquiet.

On the military side also there is reason for suspecting the soundness of British methods. Why, for instance, does it take six years for a new type to be developed from specification to the stage of being adopted by the Service, with the result that it is obsolete by the time machines are supplied to the Air Force?

Since re-equipment cannot be frequent, it is essential that the incubation period should be halved, and it easily could be.

Long periods of incubation are by no means necessary to British designers, as the firm which produced the "Dragon" air-liner and, more recently, the "Comet" high-speed mail plane, which won the England-Melbourne race, has shown. In each case only six or eight months were needed.

British Design As Good As Any

British design is as good as that of any other country, and better than most. Let us take, for example, the varied class of light aeroplanes and high-performance private machines. The United States, with infinitely greater opportunity, has so failed to produce anything superior; though it may be there is an extravagant American super-exports class, with very powerful engines, for which there is no British counterpart.

A glance at the speeds attained over the difficult course of this year's King's Cup air race will show that for comparatively low power British machines are fast. Thus the Miles "Hawk" averaged 147.78 m.p.h., a Leopard Moth 141.46, and the Monospar 134.16.

No doubt the cause why Britain lags behind in air developments has been lack of means; both for the Service and for civil flying. We marked time in air armaments while other countries expanded steadily. On the civil side Britain has spent only a tenth of the money which has been directly and indirectly lavished on aviation by the Government of the United States.

There is another factor to be considered. In this country research is far too much monopolised by the Air Ministry. The men who carry it on are highly qualified, and some of them, although their names are unknown to the lay public, have world reputations. Unfortunately, the Civil Service atmosphere in which these scientists labour does not encourage the early publication of results, nor is any penalty imposed on excessive deliberateness.

Ideally, speed ought not to matter in research, but in an imperfect world, and under conditions of rivalry in which other countries are hustling research and then hustling operational experience, we cannot afford to loiter.

The importance of building up operational experience and amassing data is better appreciated in the United States and Germany. In both countries aero engines based on Diesel principles have been accepted, and although not yet perfect, they are good enough to put into regular service.

It may be said that British cautiousness will eventually win its reward. Nevertheless, while British heavy-oil engines may be superior to those of other countries, operational experience cannot be bought, and it has still to be sought. Other countries are locating the snags before we begin.

Improvement In The Propeller

Still more remarkable is Britain's slowness in developing the variable-pitch propeller. In aeroplane propulsion this may be compared to the gearing of a motor-car. In practical aeronautics the importance of the variable-pitch propeller has always been recognised. I have never met an aeronautical scientist who doubted its value. Yet there are sceptics at the Air Ministry.

It is only fair to say that the Ministry has been experimenting for a considerable time with a British-designed variable-pitch propeller. But in the United States and in other countries variable-pitch propellers have long since emerged from the experimental stage. Most of the American machines taking part in the England-Melbourne air race will have them. The British "Comets," designed for the contest, are also fitted with them, although the builders had to obtain them from America.

The first in the world parachute descent from an autogyro was made in Moscow by Soviet flier, Volkov, who left the autogyro at the altitude of 1,000 metres.

32-Passenger Machine Placed On The Amsterdam-Batavia Line

What Netherlands newspapers might can be turned into a sleeping compartment, enclosed by heavy curtains.

The plane will also be equipped with two bathrooms and an electric kitchen in which breakfast and luncheon will be prepared, while dinner will be taken every evening at intermediary landing stations. According to schedule the plane will cover the distance in six days. The fare has been fixed at 5,000 shillings without meals.

Graced by the smiles of Mary Pickford, who flew from Los Angeles to Cleveland in a plane piloted by Jimmy Doolittle, the National Air Races played to stiff-necked, open-mouthed crowds at Cleveland airport as stunt planes, racing streaks and other new model ships cavorted in the skies. Flying above is shown a squadron of United States Marine flyers from Quantico. Below left, is Lee Miles, winner of several racing events, in one of which he travelled at an average rate of 200.8 miles an hour. In the group are, left to right, Cliff Henderson, race manager; Doolittle, and Miss Pickford.

3,000-FT. PARACHUTE JUMP IN FLAMES

Thrill For Thousands When Planes Collide in Italy

While crowds were waiting to see Signor Mussolini pass on his way to Monza recently, two military aeroplanes which were performing evolutions about 3,000 ft. above Milan collided.

The two pilots jumped with parachutes. One of them was in flames, but tore off his clothing as he fell, landing in the heart of the city burned, but otherwise unharmed.

GAS BOMBS FROM AEROPLANES

Chemist As Key Man In Next War

"The chemist will be the key man in the scheme of defence for the next war," said Mr. J. Davidson Pratt, a former member of the Technical Committee of the Disarmament Conference, in an address at Glasgow.

Speaking of aerial bombing, Mr. Pratt said: "Pilots may liberate a variety of toxic agents which may act on the human body in various ways."

"Thus protection for the whole body is a desideratum for poison gases of the mustard gas, and Lewisite type, whereas for the other types a gas-mask protecting the lungs and eyes is adequate."

"Substances such as mustard gas and Lewisite, which are, in fact, liquids with high boiling points, can be sprayed from aircraft, from practically any height to fall like rain on the ground below."

Colonel Roscoe Turner and Mr. Clyde E. Pangborn, two United States entrants for the London-Melbourne air race who finished third arrived at Havre before the race in the liner Washington with their aeroplane, a twin-motored Boeing.

Colonel Turner, in his uniform, appeared like a handsome lion tamer. The airman's mascot, was a small stuffed tiger.

GERMANY TO HAVE STILL BIGGER AIRSHIPS

CONFIDENCE BUILT UP BY THE GRAF ZEPPELIN

A new German airship, the LZ 129, will soon be launched.

She will be bigger than the Graf Zeppelin, and indeed a general improvement upon her. Yet it is the success of the Graf, launched in 1928, that has given German designers the confidence to go on with airships.

Its remarkable career is more than keeping alive the faith in airships held by many people in other countries than Germany—it gives pause to many in Great Britain and the United States who have been convinced by disasters that the airship has no future.

Even those aeronautical authorities who have always been ranged on the anti-airship side are impressed by the consistency of the Graf Zeppelin's success.

By all aircraft standards she is now an old ship, having crossed the Atlantic sixty-two times, apart from special voyages, but she still does her work. Although during the war British airships and their crews proved that the fair for airship operation need not be a German monopoly, it must be admitted that at the present time Germany has a lead which it would take long to overtake. In the United States the huge airship, the Macon, which carries several fighting aeroplanes, is the only other representative of the big rigid class.

Costly Abandonment
Russia, the United States and Japan have a few smaller airships. Great Britain has none, and the big sheds at Cardington, and the mooring towers there and in Egypt and Canada, are costly, colossal reminders of an abandoned enterprise.

The Graf Zeppelin marks an attempt to demonstrate the commercial value of airships; and although no single ship could possibly be a profitable concern, enough has been accomplished to prove that a fleet of such ships, the production of which would be so much cheaper, might reasonably be expected to be sound commercially. Certainly this must be accepted if the Graf Zeppelin's record is not a mere fluke.

That it can hardly be, for in six years this veteran has travelled in all climates, weathered many storms, and proved that lightning, although best avoided, is no more dangerous than it is to a marine vessel.

Dr. Eckener's Claim
Dr. Eckener and his colleagues claim "with obvious reason" that, manned by crews of experience, and directed in the light of the knowledge accumulated in innumerable voyages, the airship affords a reliable means of travel. Obviously the airship case ought to be judged in the light of that claim, and this facts upon which it is based, and not solely on recent British experience, so evidently obtained under handicaps due to extraneous influences and policies.

The new airship will have a capacity of 7,070,000 cubic feet, nearly half as big again as the defunct British R.100 and R.101. Her range will be 8,000 miles, at a speed of 80 m.p.h., and she will carry 50 beds.

Dr. Eckener claims that a big profit could be made with four ships of this size on the following routes: Germany to Rio Janeiro, North America to the Dutch Europe with both Americas.

This does not appear to be mere enthusiastic speculation. Dr. Eckener has ever been cautious in his estimations.

The pilots made the outward journey in 11½ hours, and left Melbourne for England last Saturday.—British Wireless Service.

Biggest British Plane Order Placed—55 Machines—£70,000

A contract for 55 Monospar aeroplanes—believed to be the largest number of civil aircraft ever included in one order in Great Britain—was concluded recently.

The total value of the order, which has been placed by the Aircraft Exchange and Mart, Ltd., with General Aircraft, Ltd., is in the neighbourhood of £70,000.

It is a significant tribute to British machines that about half of the total number has been ordered for export.

Three different types are included, one being the S.T.10, which won this year's King's Cup air race. Another is the S.T.11, similar to the special machine fitted with a retractable undercarriage now on its way to Australia for use on official communication duty by the Australian Air Ministry.

Under the Monospar principle of wing construction a saving of 30 per cent in weight, without sacrificing strength, is claimed.

The machines are all fitted with twin engines but can climb fully loaded on one engine.

LEADERSHIP LACKING ON WALL STREET

Daily average production of crude oil totalled 2,336,000 barrels, against 2,380,000 barrels the previous week.

The "Iron Age" reports steel production at 25.0 per cent of capacity. The increase is chiefly due to the larger release from the automobile industry, while heavier pig-iron shipments and further strengthening of scrap prices have given the iron and steel market added buoyancy.

The International Rubber Regulation Committee meeting in London yesterday disagreed and was adjourned without fixing the export quotas for 1935.

Wall Street is dull, but steady, with minor fractional gains predominating. A slight improvement seems to be indicated, but, with leadership lacking, a dull and narrow market is expected.

E. A. Pierce Co.'s Report

In their market report, the American Oriental Finance Corporation, correspondent for Messrs. E. A. Pierce and Company New York state:

"Stocks: There was no particular change in the market and there is nothing to say one way or the other."

"Wheat: The weakness of the foreign markets influenced selling here. There was some support on dips and a rally occurred late in the session."

"Cotton: Bearish interpretation of the weakness of October cotton induced liquidation by London interests and some stop-loss selling was in evidence. Buying was of a Trade character, but it was not aggressive. The cotton-goods markets were quiet."

"Rubber: The sharp drop in prices was caused by apprehension over the disagreement among the delegates of the Restriction Committee. The London market was weak, while general selling here, together with stop-loss orders, uncovered forced liquidation."

"Flash: The Timken Roller Bearing Company has declared an extra dividend of 25 cents per share."—Reuter.

Italy As A Nation
In Arms

Henceforth, from the age of 8 to 55, every male Italian is to be a soldier. That is the kernel of the new laws for the more intensive militarisation of the Italian nation approved by the Italian Cabinet and hailed by the Fascist Press as the most glorious fruit and consummation of the Fascist regime. The edicts go forth in the name of military preparedness, a subject on which Signor Mussolini has made some very remarkable pronouncements of late. "Woe to the weak and the cowards," he said at Foggia, "and to the unprepared in spirit and in arms!" "Militarism is the nation," he wrote, in strong championship of that epithet, "which subordinates to the military necessities everything else of the material and moral life of the individual as of the community." That theory of the State and of the inescapable military obligations of every citizen toward it could hardly find stronger expression. It is now to be given the fullest legislative effect in the national education.

The idea that the highest aim of national training is to make a good citizen is rejected. The citizen as such, concerned mainly with his family and civic duties, drops from view and the soldier-citizen takes his place. From the age of 8 the child is to be trained to the knowledge and use of arms. That was the Spartan theory. It was also the Nazi. It is already the Nazi theory, and now the Fascists carry it many steps farther. The best citizen is to be he who can best and longest bear arms for the defence of the State. That a statesman of Signor Mussolini's calibre, who in a hundred ways has proved himself an earnest champion of the arts of peace and one of the warmest supporters of all-round disarmament at the Disarmament Conference, should now feel obliged to propound such a thesis in its extreme form is a sad commentary on the state of Europe. Little boys are to be prepared "spiritually, physically, and militarily," so that when they join the Colours they can "dedicate themselves to warlike instruction and the profession of arms." Throughout boyhood and adolescence the military spirit is to be inculcated in every way by contact with armed men and familiarity with the "glorious traditions of war."

There are those who frown upon the world patriotism because they say it leads to militarism. But they will be much more sorely troubled to find militarism thus exalted as if it were the only flower of patriotism; and as if manhood were always to be regarded as imperfect and incomplete unless it were continually in accoutrements and within touch of the barrack square. This intense Italian emphasis on militarism is doubtless to be regarded in part as a conscious reply to the Teutonic emphasis across the Alps, even though in other ways it is only the logical outcome of the Fascist theory of the State as Signor Mussolini has propounded it from the start. It is the doctrine of the Nation in Arms carried to its farthest possible limit, and starting almost from Conscriptio in the Cradle. The duty of fuller military preparedness, if Europe again becomes an armed camp may well have to be accepted as a hard necessity. But it is a totally different thing deliberately to set about instilling into the youth of a nation a passionate zeal for military life and militarist spirit which generally seeks an outlet in expansion and aggression. The Duce is never better inspired than when he extols the Roman pattern, but if he goes back to his great originals he will find abundant warnings against the pervasive militarism which his new decrees seem inexorably bound, if not designed, to produce.

CHICAGO'S FAIR CLOSES

Chicago's 1934 World's Fair closed on Tuesday with officials saying that it was a phenomenal success from a financial standpoint.

The Century of Progress Exposition, second world's fair, sponsored by Chicago, was the eleventh world exposition to be conducted in America.

This year's fair was different from 1933, in that the lighting system for the 1934 fair was different and the colouring of the 1933 exposition, was also changed.

The whole general aspect of the 1934 exposition was different from that of 1933.

ROOSEVELT'S REQUEST

The 1933 fair opened June 1 and closed November 12, covering five months of operation. Officials claimed that the 1933 exposition was the greatest success from financial and attendance standpoint of any ever held in this continent.

Officials decided to reopen the fair in 1934 after receiving requests from President Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Governor Al Smith of New York, Mayor Kelley, and thousands of others.

More than 22,250,000 visitors from all parts of the world were entertained at the fair last year, according to officials, and 38,000,000 this year.

THE ROMANCE OF THE
CUNARD LINE
UNPARALLELED DEGREE OF SAFETY

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS

(By H. L. Wilson)

London. date was convinced that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, as it was believed that they would burn on the passage much more coal than they could carry.

Atlantic Voyage Scoffed

Indeed that great panjandrum Dr. Dionysius Lardner, in a lecture at Liverpool in 1835, had declared he had "no hesitation" in stating that the project of making a voyage by steam direct from Liverpool to New York was "perfectly chimerical, and you might as well talk of making a voyage from New York or Liverpool to the moon."

The steamers of that day were in truth indifferent craft compared with the giants of our time. They were small. Britannia had a gross tonnage of only 1,155 tons, so that she was little larger than a modern powerful tug. They were short—207 ft. long. They were driven by paddle wheels, which are ill-suited for work in the furious weather of the Atlantic in winter. They were built of wood and were apt to be shaken to pieces when they were driven at any speed.

No other company can show such a record. It stands out as something unique and extraordinary, worthy of what may claim to be the oldest steamship line in the world.

This unparalleled degree of safety has been attained only by the most rigorous precautions and discipline. Every scrap of material used in No. 534 is tested, and rejected if it should show any trace of weakness. Before putting to sea every part of the ship and every detail of equipment is examined. Boat drills and fire drills are carried out by the crew so that each man may know his station and duty in the event of mishap.

No Ship Lost By Fire

The risk of fire is just now much in the public mind, but it is worth notice that no Cunard steamer in service has ever been lost by fire, with such care and efficiency in the security of the passenger guarded. Additional precautions against the fire risk are being taken in the Queen Mary, since the Morro Castle disaster.

Of the crews that work these gigantic ships, it is sufficient for those who remember the history of the war to say that they are British seamen.

There are few incidents in the annals of our Merchant Service, on which the greatness of our country so largely depends—so glorious as the behaviour of Lusitania's officers and men in the last moments before she went to the bottom, after being torpedoed. In the words of an entirely dispassionate American witness on board her, "Absolute coolness prevailed. There was no rushing about; nothing remotely resembling a panic."

Her captain bore himself according to the noblest traditions of the sea. He was on the bridge when the great Cunarder received her mortal wound. He remained on the bridge, calmly giving orders, as she sank; he was there at the post of duty when she vanished beneath the water, and went down with her, though, by what was almost a miracle, he was rescued after being three hours in the sea.

Genius Of Founder

Conduct such as this would have filled with pride the heart of Samuel Cunard, who gave his name to the company and founded it.

He was a quite little man of few words but of great ideas, Canadian by descent and born in 1797, who was the first to conceive the idea of a regular steamship service between England and America. Isolated steam vessels had effected the passage—though largely with the aid of sails. He thought in terms of monthly, or weekly sailings to a definite time schedule. It was a stroke of genius on his part that after obtaining a contract from the Admiralty for such a service, he ordered four sister ships, the most famous of which was Britannia.

This was in 1840. His courage, and that of his business partners, Burns and Melver, was all the greater since the scientist of that

Turbine Installation

In them, for the first time in ocean liners, turbine engines were installed, largely through the influence of that genius Lord Fisher, who declared to me that the turbine was the engine of the future. Many wise men shook their heads over this bold departure.

But it was completely justified by events. Down to the date of the war these two ships were the flyers of the Atlantic, and even to-day, 28 years after her launch, the old Mauretania is among the half-dozen fastest liners of the world.

Looking into the still distant future, we may, of course, see air transport across the Atlantic competing with express ship transport. (Continued on Page 6)

JAPANESE ART

Wonderful Water Colour
Picture Exhibition

Lovers of art, who await the opening each autumn of Messrs. Komor & Komor's pictures will not be disappointed this year, for that famous gallery contains many examples of paintings by men like "Terauchi, Banison, Kano, etc."

Birds and flowers, sea views, mountains that seem real and only these Japanese artists can give so much for so little. It is surprising how a picture of beauty can be sold for as little as $3.00.

To mention a few outstanding examples there are Atmospheric effects by Terauchi, sea views by Kano, and Chinese junks by Watanabe.

Detective-Sergeant Davies stated that both defendants were brought to the Water Police Station at about 2 p.m. on October 30 by Leung Cheun, a room-boy employed at the Harbour View Hotel, who said that he saw them loitering near the hotel. Several articles of clothing were found in their possession.

Both then admitted stealing the things from different addresses at different times. A bed sheet, which they had pawned, and which belonged to Mrs. Harris, they admitted stealing on October 28 from No. 538 Nathan Road. A suit of pyjamas, belonging to Dr. McElney, of No. 12 Hart Avenue, was stolen on October 29. A suit of Chinese clothes and a singlet was taken from No. 10 Granville Road on October 30. They also stole a cotton shirt, belonging to Lt. G. Wood R.N., of No. 14 Hart Avenue, on October 30.

As the second defendant had two previous convictions his sentence totaled up to 24 weeks' hard labour, while the first defendant, who had a clear record, was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

At the conclusion of the case Mr. Wynne Jones commended Leung Cheun.

MANILA CARNIVAL OPENS

Daring Diving Act Thrills Hundreds

BRIGHTER SIDE SHOWS

Tait's Manila Carnival Shows opened on the vacant ground opposite the Peninsula Hotel last night to a fanfare of music and whirl of mechanical devices, bringing with them all the thrills and fun of a modern travelling fair.

Old Man Depression was banished in moments of pleasure snatched on the back of a rocking horse. "Dodgem" cars, or in the less adventurous interior of a slide show. A new riding device brought this year is called "Leaping Lena" and consists of 12 small motor-cars which go round in a circle. The cars, in so doing, do their best to leap. They say it gives you the "Kruschen feeling." It certainly gives you a severe bumping. "Dodgem" and the Big Wheel seem to be as popular as ever, crowds waiting at times to ride them.

A new ride, the Slide, was built in Kowloon last year. The younger people seemed to be getting a great deal of fun out of it.

There are many 'side shows'. The motor-drome is one of the best with two daring riders who race each other round and round the drome, one on a motor-cycle, the other in a small motor-car. Amusements which are billed "spectacular," "stupendous," etc., rather put one off generally, but after seeing Peejay Riggins' high-diving act one alters one's opinion, for words are not strong enough to do justice to this item. Showing in a Carnival one would rather associate the acts with side shows and rides, but this is far more than a side show act.

A man of fine physique, nerve of iron, timing his dive against wind and general conditions, landing in a tank of water right in the centre from a height of 100 feet, well, it has to be seen to be believed.

Peejay Riggins has a lady partner who also performs, doing a swan dive from a 50-foot ladder. Both the acts were performed to perfection and both artistes received a great ovation from the huge crowd that witnessed the diving.

The dive was timed for 10.45 p.m., the time at which it will take place every night during the season. It is a spectacular climax to a very enjoyable evening's entertainment, an entertainment new and novel to Hong Kong.

To-day's Short Story.

The Biggest Case In Athens

By Clive Burnley

THERE was no Acropolis in Athens, except the mountains the mines tunnelled into, and no particular Parthenon, unless it was Coby's Ninety-one saloon. It was there Athens held its court, when there was any court, in the little back room behind the one where fare was played.

To-day there is no back room; no Athens at all; except heaps of tumbled iron and the shell of what used to be Lawyer Ryder's house, windowless and fast getting dis-roofed. Troy flourishes, ten miles away; Paris doesn't do so badly, because they laid the railroad through it; even little Cairo on the other side of Spring City can muster a few thousand souls. But Athens, once biggest and widest-opened, is a dead city, if it ever was a city. They cleaned the mines out, and moved on.

When Lawyer Ryder came to the West, because he heard that part of the world was lawless, and might be willing to pay to remedy that lack, Athens was alive—very much alive, likely as not to shoot itself out of sheer joie-de-vivre and the effects of the stuff Coby sold at Ninety-one.

Lawyer Ryder's first case in Athens was the very first and only case Athens ever had. The town as a whole wasn't addicted to litigation. It thought trial by combat a darn sight quicker and pretty near as just. And after the case was over Lawyer Ryder went East again. Pat Logan followed him, firing over the horizon, but never came up with him. They still talk about the case. It began in that little back room of Coby's when Lawyer Ryder rose to the full height of him, missing the ceiling by exactly three feet nine and a half inches, and said:

"The law and order of this city has been foully shattered."

"It seems to me," the judge replied, ejecting towards the cuspidor, with the deftness of long practice, "it seemeth me this case was about China Jack's cockerill."

"Why, judge," said Ryder, "and so it is. That was only a figure of speech."

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "The Concrete Facts About M. Verneuil," by R. L. Hadfield.

"Oh!" said the judge; "one of them, was it? Fire away, then."

"The manner of its being shattered," continued the lawyer, "was the foul slaughtering at eight minutes past the hour of nine of China Jack's pet fowl, as proud and pretty a rooster as ever crowed, by that acknowledged vagabond, Peter the Jackal, who is now being engaged in Pinto Canon by the citizens of Spring City, on account of his having assassinated their postmaster."

A murmur of indignation rose from the crowded court.

"It was a fowl, sir," Ryder went on, "as hadn't no match in the length and breadth of the Unity States, descended from a family that laid eggs aboard the Mayflower. It was the only delight of my client's life to pet and nurse this prodigious animal, a delight, y'r honour, that accounts for his never having got himself entangled like a silk moth cocoon in the deceitfully soft bonds of lawful matrimony."

"That may be, Mr. Ryder," said the judge, "that may very well be, and I don't reflect off-hand ever hearing a man put it better. Which only goes to show what college education does for people. But at the same time it ain't proven, and what ain't proven ain't evidence, and what ain't evidence we don't want. Call your witnesses, Mr. Ryder, sir, call your witnesses."

"But, judge—"

"It won't do! It won't do! said that individual. 'No man enjoys listening to rhetorical glory more than what I do, Mr. Ryder, an' if you've got it writ down you can read it over to me after the case is done with—but we gotta remember that the optics of the world is securely fixed upon the conducting of the Biggest Case in Athens, and mustn't be allowed to blink. Mr. Ryder, not on account. This ain't only the Biggest Case in Athens, but the only one as ever was up to now, and we can't afford to debase a city's name by taking the letter of the Law to be Z when it's a plain W. Just you call them witnesses!'"

"Very well," said Ryder. "Then I calls Patrick Logan, gennelman, sometime known as the Panhandle Boy."

So the Panhandle Boy, chewing, loomed into the dock and waved a hand at the judge.

"Now then," said Ryder, defiantly, "you tell 'em."

"Me heart's burstin' to do so," said Logan. "Tis a savage crime has besmirched the seemly peace of the fair city of Athens, and one as I'll see put to rights, come what may and go what shall."

"So you will," said the judge, "it's my job to put it to rights, and it ain't yours to talk about it. Fire away."

"The truth o' the matter is this, y'r honour," said Logan. "Two ev'nings past I come out of the El Dorado aside of Peter the Jackal, who was upset, natural enough, by being bonepicked of every cent by the last wild card of a seven-hand round. The upcome was—"

"Eh?" said the judge.

"The upcome was—"

"Now, looky here," said the judge, "it's not to be expected as a heathen Irishman can talk the English tongue like—"

The Biggest Case In Athens

"Y'r honour!" cried Logan, "if ye'll only say that again to me, — 'Steady!' said the judge. 'Steady! I'll jail you for contempt court, if you head that away. I was remarkin' that though you might have kissed a hole through the Indiana blarney stone, it didn't never teach you grammar. You can tell me 'outcome' or you can tell me 'upshot,' but by crickey air? I won't have no unacademical 'upcomings.' Now, then."

"Tis no matter to me," said Patrick. "I can tell you a story in seven tongues, including finger alphabets ad Ogham, and tho' you'll understand me in one only, 'tis better you should do that well than follow me ill in all of them. Which having said, let me tell you that as I come with the Jackal out of the El Dorado, there was China Jack's fowl a-walking and a-scratching in the gutter—a noble animal!"

"It was a good bird, Pat, was it?" "It was so. There was a shine upon its tail, y'r honour, you could 'ave shaved in, supposin' you ever did shave. It as a bird that there could never be a match for outside Kerry, where they set 'em on, spurred and plumed, to the glory of the Irish Kingdom. It had a voice as crowed a higher C than most high C's are, adding histrionic ability to its accomplishments, among which, by reason of its constitution, the only defect was its lack of talent at layin' eggs."

"And there it was, sir, in its prime. And there was Jackal, flashing his gun, and then biff! there was the cockerill, flapping in the dust stained with the noble blood of him. And Jackal, laughing like he was pleased, rode away cheerful to Spring City, where that very same evening he holed in five distinct and separately mortal places the postmaster of that town, wherefore he is now heading for a fixed rope and a moving horse in Pinto Canon."

"Wal," said the judge, "it seemsta me a 'pretty strong case.'" Lawyer Ryder got to his feet. "Strong's the word, judge," he said. "There never was a clearer case come to any court, and never one before a fairer judge, not in all my experience of justice under this or any other flag, whether it be the rising sun of Nippon or the setting glow of the British lion. More-over —"

"Ryder," said the judge, "it's time you knew better than to lay yourself out to tweak the noses of friendly foreign Powers with your rising this and setting that. Even if your chief witness is an Irishman we don't want no trouble with Great Britain yet awhile, leastways until we get them Sioux settled somewhere in the Farther out."

"Very well, judge," Ryder said. "If you say so then it is so. What I was meaning to say 'was that we claim fifteen dollars. Five for the bird, undervalued, to show our motive ain't only filthy lucre but also the bright coin of justice itself. Five more for corn as was rendered useless by the murder of the animal. And —"

"Say, China," said the judge, "you got some corn? I could do with a little meself, now you won't be wanting it."

Dark-haired, dark-skinned China Jack shook himself to his feet in the back of the court and stared about him.

"Fact is, judge," he began. "Y'r honour!" cried Ryder, "I protest! This is absolutely foreign to the case."

"Foreign!" said the judge. "Now it won't do you no good to start slanging your client like that. There may be a streak of dago in China, but nevertheless —"

"I was going to observe, sir," said Ryder, "that the other five dollars we claim as some slight recompense for the mental agony this melancholy bereavement brought to my client."

"That's very nice," agreed the judge, "very nice. But from that figure, Mr. Ryder, justice will have to deduct the value of the corpse in terms of meat and edibility, and, chicken being now fairly rare, I should say —" with stones on top of him to keep the coyotes off, and he struck up a little 'wood cross."

"That may be," the judge cut him short, "and that may not be, but I was going to say, Mr. Ryder, that the case is made out to the satisfaction of the court but that the court is of the opinion as your damages is a bit too heavy, especially as the evidence shows as Peter the Jackal was cleaned out at poker."

Lawyer Ryder opened his mouth to protest. But at that moment there was a commotion at the door. There entered the court, swaggering a little, a stranger—an extremely long sort of man, who carried two portable firearms stowed handy and conspicuous in his belt.

"What do you want?" demanded the judge, "Comin' bustin' into a solemn court like you done just now—what do you want?"

"Judge," said the stranger, "I've come to make a speech for the defence."

"Defence?" echoed the judge. "There now—I knew I forgot something. Defence—that's it. You better fire away, sharp."

The stranger fiddled with his belt armoury as if he meant to take the command literally. Then, straightening, he said:

"I've just come down from Pinto, y'r honour. The Jackal sends his respects to this noble court, what 'as been so kind to him, and in reply to kind inquiries he would like to state that he's standing off Spring City pretty well up to now, and that he'll be seeing you if his ammunition lasts him long enough to move the crowd. In the meantime, judge, on behalf of me good old friend Jackal, I'd like to say—"

While the bidding of Mr. Gould and his partner was apparently very bold, the bid of five diamonds is to be preferred to the Forcing four notrump. Overall of the Opening Pre-emptive bid as North cannot force a heart response which would compel him to show his suit at six if partner is weak.

East did not open his partner's bid suit but elected instead, to open a heart, hoping to find his partner blank of hearts and with a trump. When the Dummy was spread on the table North saw that it contained only two re-entries and that these must be conserved if he was to have any chance whatever of fulfilling his contract.

North saw that a finesse of the spades was unnecessary but a finesse of the clubs had to be taken. When the heart 9 held the first trick he led a club from Dummy and won the trick with the Knave in his own hand. He then laid down the Ace of diamonds, and when West discarded he knew that East had held four trumps originally to the Queen-10-8.

North now cashed his club Ace and then led the Knave of hearts, playing the Queen from Dummy. When West again discarded, the distribution of the heart suit was clear. North's next play was the Ace of hearts, upon which he discarded the Queen of clubs. He followed this with the lead of the Ten of hearts, which he ruffed with the five of diamonds. Then he laid down the Ace of spades and the Queen, ruffing with the three of diamonds.

At this point North knew that East now held in addition to his apparent trump tricks either a small club or a small spade. He led the last club from Dummy, which he ruffed with the six of trumps, and when East followed suit, the success of the contract was assured. North now led the nine of trumps, and East, forced to win with the Ten, had to give him a good night peck before he tucked it up each evening. China couldn't have brought himself to eat that bird, sir, not if it was man Friday to his Robinson-Crusoe, not he. So he inferred him, y'r honour, what all of ye well known—as there isn't a better, more law-abiding, decent-living citizen in this Republic than that man, a man as wouldn't swot a fly without it riled him, like the postmaster did. But at the same time, gennelman, tho' he's the aristocrat of nature, he didn't never have any hook learning. He can only read a bar sign by the two O's in 'saloon,' and the complicated and ceremonious proceedings of y'r honour's court is entirely too deep for him.

"On that account, gennelman, as soon as he's disposed of the Spring City vagabonds, he says he'll be calling round to see you, just to ask you about one or two points in this case as wasn't clear to him. It's only nat'ral, as a law-abiding citizen, he'd want to see the judge as convicted him, and the man what made him do it, to find out about them points. There's one talent of his, judge, I didn't mention when I was talking about his lack of education, which is, that it takes a sure eye and a quick finger to hole a running rooster at fifty yards, a thing as ain't to be done every day by lawyers out of Massa-chew-sitts...."

The stranger looked around him. "I guess that's all," he said.

The judge coughed and frowned. A silence fell over the court.

"Mr. Logan!" said the judge at last. "Can you be kind enough to answer a question?"

"Sure I can, sir," answered Pat. "Tis too willing I am. And it's here I'd like to say that your honour's decision, even if it's against China here, will have my support, sir, to the last...."

"Pat," said the judge, interrupting, "there are quite a number of runs in Athens."

"So there are, sir," said Mr. Logan, nodding. "There's many from y'r honour's ivory handle to me own pea-shooter."

"Well, then, Pat," the judge went on, "You told me as you seen the gun in the Jackal's hand, and heard it fire, and seen the rooster in the gutter. Didn't you, Pat.... And after that, because it made too much ain't misreadin' your mind, that it

"HERE COMES THE GROOM"—
QUEEN'S THEATRE

"Here Comes The Groom," a hilarious comedy romance, featuring Jack Haley, Mary Boland, Neil Hamilton and Isabel Jewell, is Paramount's current attraction at the Queen's Theatre.

Trying to prove to his girl that he can be a big success in his profession, burglary, Jack Haley gets himself into quite a mix-up while holding up a poker game. The cops spot him, give chase and Haley finds escape in the pullman compartment of a railroad train waiting at the station.

The compartment in which he hides belongs to a young bride, whose husband, a famous radio tenor, has deserted her because her father's money had suddenly disappeared. She is on her way home, and forces Haley to pose as the husband.

Others in the cast are Patricia Ellis, Sidney Toler and Larry Gray.

"MISS FANE'S BABY IS STOLEN"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

Dorothea Wreck, Paramount actress, co-starred with Alice Brady, is now playing in the leading role of "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen," the current picture at the Oriental Theatre.

The story, originally from the pen of Rupert Hughes and adapted to the screen by Adela Rogers St. Johns, is filled with the emotions of a woman's heart.

It calls for the grief, terror, bereavement, joy and love of a carefree mother who can offer her adopted child everything before he is torn from her grasp.

The picture also features Baby LeRoy, Jack LaRue, Alan Hale, George Barbier, Dorothy Burgess and "Spanky" McFarland.

"The Man Who Dared," a Fox Film production, is now at the Alhambra Theatre.

The story of the picture traces the development of a young immigrant from his humble beginnings as a miner through one of the most turbulent periods of recent times. It reveals the perseverance and the unwavering devotion of a young man for the righteous principles of his adopted country.

The axis around which the plot of "The Man Who Dared" revolves, is a romance between the young immigrant and a beautiful girl of his own nationality. Brusque and fearless as his life is, he reveals himself the tenderest of lovers and the most considerate of companions. In the leading role are Preston Foster and Zita Johann.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received November 1, 9.30 a.m.)
Washington, To-day.
In furtherance of the credit expansion scheme, the United States Treasury has ruled that the direct loan to the industry bill modifies the previous restrictive banking legislation.
For example, if a firm wants to borrow U.S.$200,000 when the bank is limited to a U.S.$100,000 loan, the loan could be made if the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or the Federal Reserve, take a commitment on the second U.S.$100,000.
The Federal Credit Administration has announced that it has made more than 1,400,000 loans, totalling U.S.$1,960,000,000 and practically halting farm mortgage foreclosures.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Amsterdam plantation circles consider three months too short a period, as the companies, especially those in Sumatra would be unable to make the necessary preparations. The following good advice of one who knows will prove very useful to you in future: When you have spent happy hours with friends, take 'Gardan' even before going to bed!
